

The Eminent Kidney and Bladder Specialist.

The Discoverer of Swamp-Root at Work in His Laboratory.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell. Then the richness of the blood—the albumen—leaks out and the sufferer has Bright's Disease, the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the new discovery is the true specific for kidney, bladder and urinary troubles. It has cured thousands of apparently hopeless cases, after all other efforts have failed. At drug stores in fifty-cent and dollar sizes. A sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling about Swamp-Root and its wonderful cures. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and mention this paper.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Mason and Dixon Line.

[Baltimore American.]

THE engineers who are making the new survey of the Mason and Dixon line, under the direction of the United States coast and geodetic survey, are progressing rapidly with the work. The commission directing the survey includes the superintendent of the coast survey and a representative from Maryland and Pennsylvania. The original running of the line was done according to the terms of the final agreement concluded in 1760, after protracted negotiations. There was a conflict of grants of Maryland and Pennsylvania, and other complications affecting the titles. The Penns had a friend at court, and the Calverts were finally coerced into conceding everything demanded. It is the belief of many that the line formed the dividing line between the slave and anti-slave states. This is erroneous, although it was generally understood to be the division during the civil war and was frequently spoken of as separating the north and south.

In the briefest way, the Mason and Dixon line is the boundary between Maryland on one side and Pennsylvania and Delaware on the other side. It formed the northern and eastern boundary of Maryland, so far as limited by contiguous states. At the time of its survey Delaware was a part of Pennsylvania, and was known as "the three lower counties on the Delaware river." The term is, however, often extended to cover the whole southern boundary of Pennsylvania, and not without good reason, as Mason and Dixon had received instructions to complete the whole of that line and had actually progressed some thirty miles to the westward of Maryland, then unmarked and unknown, when their operations were stopped by the Indians, who were then all-powerful west of the Alleghenies. This was in 1763, and was the final act of a long-maintained and rancorous dispute between the lords, proprietors of Maryland and Pennsylvania, which had its birth in the grant by King Charles I of England to Cecil Calvert, Baron Baltimore, of the province of Maryland, carved from the parent province of Virginia, and extending on the north to the 40th parallel of latitude. This included the whole of Delaware and about fifteen miles width along the southern border of Pennsylvania. When, many years later, William Penn obtained from King Charles II the grant of the province of Pennsylvania and established the town of Philadelphia, he found to his dismay that the 40th parallel would pass through that town, and he therefore agreed to accept that charter limit as his boundary.

It was only after nearly a century of controversy, of litigation, almost of civil war, that Penn's descendants finally acquired the fruition of his schemes. After several years abortive attempts by local surveyors to carry out the mandates of the English courts of law, the proprietors employed two noted English mathematicians—Charles Mason and Jeremiah Dixon—to come to his country and mark out the boundary on the ground. They brought the best instruments of the day, and entirely discarding the compass needle, so generally and unfortunately employed in similar work, they made a survey that is really monumental in its way and undoubtedly the best of all the provincial boundary surveys. Arriving in Philadelphia in the fall of 1763, they began active operations the following spring and continued the work until the fall of 1768, when they were discharged.

The object of the present survey is to restore the old monuments, many of which have been destroyed or removed and to erect additional monuments for the better definition of the line. Owing to the fact of Maryland being a slave state, while Pennsylvania was a free state, the line was frequently mentioned in the long discussions over that burning question and many confused it with "the Missouri compromise" line. It was also generally forgotten that the boundary between Maryland and Delaware was a part of the Mason and Dixon line. These were both slave states, and there was, therefore, no distinction to be drawn. Since the appointment of the survey commission, under acts of the legislatures of Pennsylvania and Maryland, in 1899 and 1900, engineers have run across many of the monuments used by Mason and Dixon to mark the line. It has long been the desire of the government to have a correct division, and the commissioners were appointed for this purpose.

A Woman's Wealth. Paine's Celery Compound

GIVES VIGOR AND STRENGTH TO DEBILITATED AND RUN DOWN WOMEN.

It is maintained by many distinguished writers that the greatest of nation depends much upon the physical condition of its women. The general conditions which contribute to health and long life, are those which do not imply a rapid and unequal exhaustion of those powers by which life is maintained. While we assert that the women of our land stand peerless for beauty and the virtues that make them lovable, we cannot hide the fact that there are thousands in our midst who, owing to overwork, worry, household cares, and an unequal exhaustion of life power, have become weak, nervous, sleepless, and debilitated.

We bring to the attention of all weary, despondent, hopeless, and sickly women earth's great restorer and health builder, Paine's Celery Compound. Thousands of healthy women around us owe their present vigor, activity, and robustness to Paine's Celery Compound. Mrs. Stephen Smith, St. Paul, Minn., tells how she was snatched from the grave: "I had a bad attack of the grippe this spring and was at death's door, and no one ever expected me to recover. I was so weak that as soon as they brought me out of one faint I was in another. I could not take any nourishment, and doctors' medicines did me no good. A friend advised my husband to get me a bottle of Paine's Celery Compound, which he did, but had no faith in it. The second day after taking the Compound, I began to get hungry and took an interest in things. I had everything that money and loving care could supply, and with that and Paine's Celery Compound, I am now doing my own work, while three months ago I was almost in the grave. I know that I owe my health and strength to Paine's Celery Compound, and shall always recommend it."

Dining Table Dots.

Ladies' Home Journal.

One may begin to eat as soon as those near one have been served. The oysters are eaten with the smallest fork. Soup is taken noiselessly from the side of the spoon, and to tip the plate to either side betrays too good an appetite. Olives may be taken in the fingers if no better means is provided.

Bread is broken, not cut, and conveyed to the mouth in small pieces. Fish is eaten with the fork held in the right hand, with the aid only of a bit of bread, unless silver fish knives are provided.

Entrees are eaten with the fork only, and when, for the roast or game, the knife is used, the fork is held in the left hand, tines downward—and the right relaxes its grasp of the knife as the fork is raised to the lips.

Salad is always eaten with a fork; even with lettuce, the leaves may be folded into convenient size. Ices are eaten with a fork or a spoon. These should never be auxiliaries. Fruit is cut into small pieces and eaten from the hand, or with a fork, never bitten. Bonbons are taken in the fingers and are served when the finger-bowls are accessible.

When one passes one's plate the knife and fork should be left upon it, side by side.

A fork is always preferred to a spoon where the character of the food permits its use.

In spreading bread, it should be rested on the plate, supported by the fingers of the left hand. One may drink bullion from the cup or use a spoon. Cheese is cut with a knife—preferably a silver one, and a moral placed on a cracker or a piece of bread and conveyed to the mouth.

Asparagus may be taken up in the fingers when the stalks are large and hardy, dipped in the sauce and bitten off—otherwise, the points should be cut off, eaten separately and the butts held by a fork to the mouth. When drinking from a cup the spoon is removed and the cup held directly over the saucer.

To sop up gravy or sauce with a bit of bread, to pile one thing upon another on the fork so as to eat meat and vegetables at the same moment, to crumble bread into one's soup are breaches of the prevailing rules of table etiquette. One should endeavor to keep one's plate in as orderly a condition as circumstances will allow.

WORST OF ALL EXPERIENCES.

Can anything be worse than to feel that every minute will be your last? Such was the experience of Mrs. R. H. Newcom, Decatur, Ala. "For three years," she writes, "I endured insupportable pain from indigestion, stomach and bowel trouble. Death seemed inevitable when doctors and all remedies failed. At length I was induced to try Electric Bitters and the result was miraculous. I improved at once and now I'm completely recovered. For Liver, Kidney, Stomach and Bowel troubles Electric Bitters is the only remedy. Only 50 cents a bottle."

Nature's Healing.

Selected.

Now that the hot months are approaching it is well to plan for little convenient outings, to be taken whenever [time and business will permit. The resting spell may be but a few hours in length, and the journey but a short distance from one's own door yard, but let us get out whenever we can, into the blessed sunshine and fellowship with Nature. In this age of artificial life and pursuit, there is so much that is exhausting to both mind and body, that our mental, as well as physical, health demands a certain amount of relaxation to be gotten in no other way than by wandering in green fields and drinking in the sweetened air of the outer world. Many tired and depressed men and women would be lifted out of the slough of their despond if they would live more out of doors. Women, especially, need this relief. It is not needed that we become a Thoreau and live in a hut in the woods in order that we may commune with Nature, though if one might leave the city behind and seek the solitude of woods and fields, "the world forgetting, by the world forgot," the cure would be more complete, and the benefit much greater.

But anything that takes one out into the open air, if but for an hour or two, and creates an interest in the green things of the natural world, if it be only the care of a little patch of flower garden in a city backyard, is helpful, and no woman ever learned to love and care for a plant or flower without becoming, to that extent, a better and happier woman. Even a small bed sown to a mixed package of flower seeds will be a source of perpetual delight to the one who is interested in watching the continual surprises that are stored up in the expectancy of the ever-varying blooming time. Let us resolve to get as many outings as we possibly can, and let us take every one we can get.

Suicide Statistics.

Springfield Republican.

Modern civilization is being forced more and more deeply on the defensive in the matter of suicide. Statistics finding publication in England show a great increase in the rate of self-destruction in European countries during the last twenty-five years. Thus in France the rate has increased from 157 to 224 per million of population, and in Germany it is nearly the same. The rate has increased during the same time by twenty-seven in Hungary, eighteen in Scotland, fifteen in England and eight in Ireland. It is not those of mature age alone who are afflicted. During the ten years from 1887 to 1897 over 400 persons under fifteen years of age killed themselves, and 76 of these were girls. Russia alone shows no increase in the rate, and that is the most backward country in Europe. The civilization of the day is having some hard questions put to it, and this is one of them. Why so much self-murder?

STARTLING EVIDENCE.

Fresh testimony in great quantity is constantly coming in, declaring Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds to be unequalled. A recent expression from T. J. McFarland, Bentonville, Va., serves as example. He writes: "I had Bronchitis for three years and doctored all the time without being benefited. Then I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery, and a few bottles wholly cured me." Equally effective in curing all Lung and Throat troubles, Consumption, Pneumonia and Grip. Guaranteed by E. T. Whitehead & Co., Druggists. Trial bottles free, regular sizes 50c and $1.00.

That the microbes which cause disease cannot be killed by firing them out of a gun has been proved in official government experiments. Microbes of malignant pustule, and of abscess and of the intestine were smeared upon the face of the gun wad, put next the powder and fired into sterile gelatin and agar-agar. In each case the microbes developed each after its kind in the medium receiving the wad.

LADIES AND CHILDREN INVITED

All ladies and children who cannot stand the shocking strain of laxative syrups, cathartics, etc., are invited to try the famous Little Early Risers. They are different from all other pills. They do not purge the system. Even a double dose will not gripe, weaken or sicken; many people call them the Easy Pill. W. H. Howell, Houston, Tex., says nothing better can be used for constipation, sick headache, etc. Bob Moore, Lafayette, Ind., says all others gripe and sicken, while Dr. King's Little Early Risers do their work well and easy. Insanity Among Negroes.

Atlanta Journal.

Mr. Sam Small's impassioned address before the charities convention must have been as interesting to northern and western delegates as to those living in the same section with himself, concerning insane negroes.

Dr. Seary's statement, in which he said there were now thirteen insane negroes to one during slavery times, has also painful interest, to those, especially who are exposed to the violence of negroes who may be possibly insane when they seem abnormally vicious and degenerate.

This condition of affairs demands immediate attention, because the necessity of the situation is before us in all its horror and danger. The use of dope drugs is known to be extensive among negroes. A year or two ago the city of Augusta felt obliged to pass regulations forbidding the indiscriminate sale of such dope drugs because the effect on negroes had become painfully apparent. In one editorial on the subject, the Augusta Chronicle declared the eyes and skin of such dope addicts betrayed the excessive use of dope drugs, and that ten cents would buy sufficient dope stuff to produce an effect that twenty-five cents worth of mean whiskey would hardly accomplish. The cheapness of the drug as compared with the whiskey expense, was inducing great numbers to indulge in the former. And like the opium habit, when once fastened upon the user it is hardly ever eradicated. Perhaps it is an opium habit, or its equivalent, that is understood by dope ineptly.

It is also said that popular brands of snuff among negroes have more or less of narcotic effects. Whether this is true or otherwise, the high rate of insanity among negroes is attributable to some cause, which should be promptly investigated and understood fully.

There is too much at stake to allow apathetic disregard of such conditions. The fact that every home in the land is menaced by violence, by incendiarism, burglary, arson and murder, should be sufficient to call for prompt and rigid investigation of the causes for insanity as here explained.

Pineapple Culture.

Country Life in America.

No one in the north ever knows what pineapple really is until he goes to Florida and tastes a pineapple that has been thoroughly ripened on the plant. The pineapples of the northern markets are practically all one variety, the chief merit of which is that you can ship it anywhere. What the Ben Davis is to the apple the Red Spanish is to the pineapple. Both are good to eat, but not to eat. Even a Red Spanish, however, is good when you taste it in the tropics.

The northern visitor to Florida expects to find all the tropical fruits of better flavor than anything he has been used to, but in the case of the pineapple the added sweetness is out of all proportion to the others. In fact, a ripe pineapple in Florida is delicious beyond all expression. The northerner in Florida "discovers" the pineapple and becomes enthusiastic at once. He must go right off and see how they are grown and when he sees the first plantation he usually wants to invest in pineapple growing without waiting another minute.

Our northern friend is now in excellent condition to be "done." There are real estate speculators everywhere. If the northerner buys land that looks to be and really is good for ordinary garden crops, the chances are that he will lose his money. The selection of the soil is the most important problem connected with pineapple growing, and the kind of soil that is actually used, is not simply absurd, it is preposterous! It looks like pure sand. As a matter of fact, some of it contains nearly 99 1/2 per cent. of substances which are quite insoluble even in strong acids. Fancy raising a crop of fruit from soil only one two-hundredth part of which is soluble in water!

HIS LAST HOPE REALIZED.

[From The Sentinel, Galesburg, Mo.]

In the first opening of Oklahoma to settlers in 1889, the editor of this paper was among the many seekers after fortune who made a big race one fine day in April. During his traveling about and afterwards his camping upon his claim, he encountered much bad weather, which, together with the severe heat, gave him a very severe diarrhoea which it seemed almost impossible to check, and along in June the case became so bad he expected to die. One day one of his neighbors brought him one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as a last hope. A big dose was given him while he was rolling about on the ground in great agony, and in a few minutes the dose was repeated. The good effect of the medicine was soon noticed and within an hour the patient was taking his first sound sleep for a fortnight. That one little bottle worked a complete cure, and he cannot help but feel grateful. The season for bowel disorders being at hand suggests this item. For sale by E. T. Whitehead & Co., Scotland Neck, and Leggett's Drug Store, Hobgood.

"I suppose you are familiar with John Ruskin, Miss Toole?" "Indeed, I am not! I never allow myself to become familiar with men, Mr. Pearson. I have not even met the person you refer to!"—Kansas City Journal.
